

Palliative Care Training for Emergency Physicians in Japan

Due to an aging population and an increasing number of emergency room visits, Japanese emergency physicians now see terminally ill patients more frequently

However, palliative care (PC) training opportunities for Japanese emergency physicians are limited

Proposed work

Creation of an evidence-based PC training course for Japanese emergency physicians

Survey and collate data on existing PC training courses

Ensure effective customization for Japanese emergency rooms

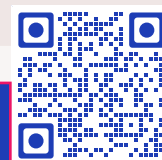

Identify topics/ communication techniques from evidence-based training in the U.S.

Design a systematic PC training course for emergency physicians in Japan

Imparting high-quality PC training to Japanese emergency physicians will help improve the standard of care for terminally ill patients in Japan

Kenji Numata

Medical Professional, St. Marianna University Hospital
Contact: kenjinumata7777@gmail.com